Open Agenda

Eva asks what everyone's experience with AI has been in classes?

Marshall says that professors for Marshall's major (Politics Department) are very against AIs for the assignments

Claude agrees with Marshall, writing focus classes are strict on no AI usage.

Juno says there is a mix, depending on which department and faculty you fall under.

Noeline talks about the harm that AI causes towards the environment.

Manan says professors for Computer Science don't prefer the use of AI, but are not fully against AI use, as it is useful as long as it is used correctly and where it is appropriate.

Mo talks about how the creative part of Park has found ways to integrate it into learning, rather than punishing the use of it.

Login talks about Login's experience with different schools this semester, and the different policies about AI use. While some schools are strictly against AI use, others talk more about honesty and citations with use of AI as a tool and not an easy way out.

Joslyn talks about the Supply Drive in the Muller Faculty Center in the Sociology Lounge.

Caleb asks for volunteers for tabling for the Student Org Fair.

Caleb also asks everyone to take pictures for Social Media

Adjournment: 8:46 PM
